CHAPTER 15

Chapter Notes

1. Mixtures Submitted to CRO for decision (Doc.OC0028, Issue No. 123)

[For the purposes of [headings 15.07 to 15.15] [Chapter 15]:

- (a) The deliberate and proportionally controlled mixing or blending (including dispersing) of materials to conform to predetermined specifications which results in the production of a good having attained new physical or chemical characteristics in terms of taste, odour or purity and use different from the input materials is considered to be origin conferring.
- (b) However, the addition of diluents only is to be disregarded in determining the origin of the good. (SG) (CH) (NOR)]

2. Definition of the term “refining” Submitted to CRO for decision (Doc.42.574/Cor, Issue No. 45)

[Refining (chemically or physically) is considered to be the last substantial transformation if at least:

- (a) all the following operations are carried out on crude oils in a single country:
 - neutralization with alkali or de-acidification (removal of the free fatty acids from the oil);
 - decolorizing (removal of colouring substances); and
 - deodorizing (separation of the volatile odorous and flavourous substances by distillation) (AUS, EC, EGY2, MEX, JPN3)
- (b) three of the following operations are carried out on crude oils⁴ in a single country:
 - Neutralization with alkali or de-acidification (removal of the free fatty acids from the oil);
 - Decolorizing (removal of colouring substances);
 - Deodorizing (separation of the volatile odorous and flavourous substances by distillation);
 - Stabilization (CH) (NOR) (SG) (TH) (TUN)]

² EGY considers that there is also substantial transformation when the operations mentioned in 2(a) relate to refined oils of headings 15.04, 15.07, 15.11, to 15.13 or 15.15.

³ JPN considers obtaining refined fats from crude fats also constitutes a substantial transformation.

⁴ CH considers that there is also a substantial transformation when the operations mentioned in 2(b) relate to refined oils of heading 15.04 or 15.15.

3. Definition of “chemical reaction” for the purposes of headings 15.16 and 15.18 Submitted to CRO for decision (Doc.42.574, Issue No.115)
[For the purposes of headings 15.16 and 15.18, a chemical reaction is defined as follows:

A “chemical reaction” is a process (including a biochemical process) which results in a molecule with a new structure by breaking intramolecular bonds and by forming new intramolecular bonds, or by altering the spatial arrangement of atoms in a molecule.

The following are not considered to be chemical reactions for the purposes of this definition :

- 1) Dissolving in water or other solvents;
- 2) The elimination of solvents including solvent water; or
- 3) The addition or elimination of water of crystallization. (EC)]

[Product Specific] [Chapter] Residual Rule

[The CIF value of non-originating materials imported and used in the production does not exceed 75 % of the ex-factory price of the goods.

The method of calculating foreign content is as follows:

$$FC = \frac{\text{CIF value of NORM}}{\text{Ex-factory price}} \times 100\% \leq 75\%$$

FC: foreign content

NORM: Non-originating raw materials

Ex-factory price = Total materials cost + Direct labour costs + Overhead costs + Profit (SG)]

[Criteria to apply Appendix 2, Rule 2(g)]

The criteria to determine the major portion of the materials as set forth in Appendix 2, Rule 2(g) for this Chapter are:

[total value of the components, taking account of the related transformation operations (CH)]

[weight or volume criterion, as applicable (NZ)]

 - a) [Changes to this Chapter from Chapter 2 or 3 merely by addition of seasoning or preservatives are not considered as substantial transformation. (US) (CAN) (COL) (PHI) (KOR) (MEX) (MOR)] Submitted to CRO for decision (Doc.42.146, Issues Nos.49 and 50)
 - b) [Changes to goods in this chapter from any other heading merely by addition of seasoning or preservatives or curing and/or smoking and cooking of such products are not considered as substantial transformation. (AUS)] Submitted to CRO for decision (Doc.42.146, Issues Nos.49 and 50)
2. [Food preparations of agricultural products of Chapters 16 to 21 are defined on the basis of one of the following two criteria :
 - a) Products to be consumed directly by the ultimate purchaser and normally sold to the ultimate purchaser in places such as department stores, supermarkets, conventional markets, etc.
 - b) Intermediate products which meet one of the following requirements and are to be used in the food industry:
 - (i) Products made through processes which are commonly used for manufacturing the intermediate products for the food industry for the purpose of enhancing the suitability for mechanical production and lowering production costs in subsequent processes.
 - (ii) Products whose ingredients are homogenized so that the said ingredients are not technically separable or economically possible.
 - (iii) Products which are transformed into those with essential character as specific prepared products through the addition of material or a component, regardless of the quality of the added material or component. (KOR)] Submitted to CRO for decision (Doc.42.146, Issue No.49)

[Criteria to apply Appendix 2, Rule 2(g)]

The criteria to determine the major portion of the materials as set forth in Appendix 2, Rule2(g) for this Chapter are:

[total value of the components, taking account of the related transformation operations (CH)]

[weight or volume criterion, as applicable (NZ)]
