CRIMINAL PENALTIES AMENDMENT BILL, 2001

MEMORANDUM

Many statutes give courts power to impose fines upon persons who are guilty of criminal offences and other offences such as contempt of court. As a rule the statutes specify the maximum (and sometimes the minimum) amount of the fines by reference to specific sums of money; thus a statute will commonly provide that any person who contravenes a particular statutory provision will be guilty of an offence and liable to a fine not exceeding a specified sum of money, the amount varying according to the gravity of the offence concerned.

Over the years the value of money has declined and many of the fines prescribed in our older statutes have become unrealistic. This is particularly so where the statutes prescribe a term of imprisonment that may be imposed in addition to or as an alternative to the fine. In many cases the fines do not represent a reasonable alternative to the period of imprisonment that may be imposed. For example, section 29 (1) of the Armorial Bearings, Names, Uniforms and Badges Act [Chapter 10:01] permits a court to impose a maximum fine of $400 or imprisonment for up to two years for certain contraventions of the Act. Four hundred dollars is no longer a realistic alternative to two years' imprisonment.

Up to now the only way to increase these unrealistic fines has been for Parliament to amend each statute in which they appear. The purpose of this Bill is to provide a simpler alternative.

This Bill will permit the Minister of Justice, Legal and Parliamentary Affairs to publish a notice in the Gazette setting out a standard scale of fines in which he will prescribe levels of fines and their corresponding monetary amounts. Thus a fine of level 1 on the standard scale may correspond to an amount of $250, a fine of level 2 may correspond to $500, and so on.

Initially it is proposed that the various levels and their corresponding monetary amounts will be as follows:

Level	Monetary amount
	$
1	250
2	500
3	1 000
4	2 500
5	5 000
6	10 000
7	20 000
8	30 000
9	40 000
10	50 000

11	70 000
12	100 000
13	150 000
14	200 000

Future statutes, when prescribing fines for offences, will not specify the monetary amounts of the fines but instead will prescribe the level of the fines: for instance, a statute may empower a court to impose a fine not exceeding level 2 on the standard scale. If the value of money changes the Minister will have power to alter the monetary amounts prescribed in the standard scale, and may even add new levels of fines. Any such amendment to the standard scale will automatically increase the courts' power to impose fines, where the fines are expressed as levels on the scale. For example, where a statute allows a court to impose a fine not exceeding level 1 on the standard scale, the court will initially have power to impose a fine of up to $250. If the Minister were to amend the standard scale so that level 1 represents $500, the court would have power to impose a fine of up to $500 under the statute concerned. Any increase in the monetary amounts in the standard scale will not affect the penalties to which persons are liable for offences committed before the date of commencement of the increase. In other words, increases in monetary amounts will not have retrospective effect. Decreases in monetary amounts, on the other hand, will have the effect of reducing the penalties for offences committed before decreases came into effect: this will give effect to article 15.1 of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, to which Zimbabwe is a party.

The standard scale of fines will be brought into effect through clause 3 of the Bill, which will insert a new section in the Criminal Procedure and Evidence Act [Chapter 9:07] empowering the Minister to publish a scale of fines in the Gazette and to amend the scale from time to time when necessary. Clause 2 of the Bill will make a consequential amendment to the Interpretation Act [Chapter 1:01]. The Bill's schedule will amend the penalty provisions of a large number of statutes by deleting references to specific sums of money that may be imposed by way of fines and substituting them with references to appropriate levels on the standard scale. In addition, the opportunity has been taken to increase the penalties for certain offences where it was felt that existing penalties (both fine and imprisonment) were no longer adequate.

PRESENTED BY THE MINISTER OF JUSTICE, LEGAL AND PARLIAMENTARY AFFAIRS

BILL

To make provision for increases in the general level of fines in statutes through statutory instrument; to amend section 3 of the Interpretation Act [Chapter 1:01]; to insert a new section in the Criminal Procedure and Evidence Act [Chapter 9:07]; to amend penalty provisions contained in other Acts; and to provide for matters connected with or incidental to the foregoing.

- (b) in respect of each level of fine, the monetary amount of the fine.

(3) Subject to subsection (4) the Minister may, by statutory instrument, amend or replace the standard scale of fines, whenever the Minister considers such an amendment or replacement to be necessary as a result of a change in the purchasing-power of money or for any other reason:

Provided that—

- (i) an increase in the monetary amount corresponding to any level in the standard scale of fines shall not have the effect of increasing the penalty to which any person is liable in respect of an offence committed before the increase came into effect;
- (ii) a reduction in the monetary amount corresponding to any level in the standard scale of fines shall reduce the penalty to which any person is liable in respect of an offence committed before the reduction came into effect, if the penalty is imposed after that date.

(4) The Minister shall within the next fourteen days on which Parliament, sits after he makes a statutory instrument in terms of subsection (2) or (3), lay it before Parliament and the statutory instrument shall not come into force unless approved by resolution of Parliament.

(5) Where any enactment provides that a person who is guilty of an offence is liable to a fine or a maximum fine by reference to a level on the standard scale, the amount of the fine or the maximum fine, as the case may be, that may be imposed shall be the monetary amount specified in respect of that level in the standard scale of fines.

(6) Where any enactment confers power to make a statutory instrument prescribing a fine or a maximum fine by reference to a level on the standard scale—

- (a) the reference shall be construed as a reference to the standard scale of fines; and
- (b) any fine or maximum fine so prescribed may be specified as a monetary amount or as a level on the standard scale of fines.

(7) Where any enactment prescribes the jurisdiction of any court or judicial officer by reference to a level on the standard scale, the reference shall be construed as a reference to the standard scale of fines.

(8) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, whenever a court imposes a sentence of a fine upon an offender, the court shall specify the monetary amount of the fine and shall not specify the fine by reference to a level on the standard scale of fines.”.

5 Amendment of certain Acts by Law Reviser

(1) In this section—

“Law Reviser” means the Law Reviser appointed in terms of section 9 of the Statute Law Compilation and Revision Act [Chapter 1:03].

(2) Where any Act, including one amending another Act, which prescribes a fine or maximum fine comes into force after the fixed date, the Law Reviser may by statutory instrument—

- (a) amend that Act so as to substitute for the monetary amount the corresponding level on the standard scale of fines; and
- (b) make such other amendments or modifications to the Act as may be necessary to bring it into conformity with this Act.

6 Transitional provisions

(1) Where, as a result of any amendment made to an Act by this Act, the penalty for any offence—

- (a) is increased, the increased penalty shall not apply in relation to offences committed before the fixed date;
- (b) is reduced, the reduced penalty shall apply in relation to offences committed before, on or after the fixed date, where sentence is imposed on the offenders concerned on or after the fixed date.
